Will Virginia merchants and bankers have their business closed out at auction this fall, with the buyer placing not only the price but also the grade upon their collateral and merchandise? They will not.

Will tobacco growers do this very thing again this fall, as for the past fifty years? They will not; if each grower who has registered his vote for prosperity and independence by signing the contract of the Cooperative Marketing Association will win one more signer to the contract next week.

Can any industry be prosperous when 60 per cent of those engaged in it must carry each year a crop mortgage to produce their crop? It can not, as any of the merchants and bankers who carried notes and accounts from 1914 to 1919 for collection, will answer.

How long will their obligations of 1921 have to be carried before tobacco growers can recuperate sufficiently to pay them up? How many growers will lose their homes and lands in 1922, if another crop is dumped upon the market in the fall of 1921?

There are farmers in every Virginia county who would have sent their children off to school, who would have painted their homes, put running water in the house and bought machinery if their tobacco had brought what it was worth.

But the boys and girls were obliged to stay at home, the houses were not painted, their wives must struggle back and forth from the well and spring, and they must plod along with the same old tools because their tobacco was dumped down at public auction for others to name not only the price, but even the grade.

Bankers, merchants State officials and extension workers have endorsed and labored for the farmers' plan for business sales in place of speculative markets. State Bankers' Associations, Boards of trade and Merchants' Associations in Virginia and North Carolina as well as Kentucky have favored cooperation and offered to aid tobacco growers.

But the bankers, lawyers, merchants and boards of trade cannot shove the farmer of Virginia to success, if the grower himself fails to back it with all his heart and strength or hesitates to sign his Declaration of Independence upon the dotted line of the Tobacco Growers' Cooperative Contract. Within the next two weeks the growers of Virginia and the Carolinas will decide whether they dump another crop upon the speculative market in the fall of 1921 and carry on the antiquated system which for fifty years has drafned the profits from out Southern farms or whether they market their product by organized sales like business men.

Each grower can better afford to work one day next week to win prosperity and one more signer to the marketing contract, than to labor through the summer for a crop which brings a year of heavier debt.

Typical of the resolutions passed by Kentucky bankers, favorable in every case to the marketing organization of tobacco growers, is the following:

"Resolved, That groups 6 and 9 of the Kentucky bankers' Association in meeting assembled at Mayesville, Ky., June 8, 1921, express it as their opinion that the plan for the future cooperative marketing of tobacco as explained at this meeting by Judge Robert W. Bingham, is a fair and reasonable plan of handling the tobacco crop and should prove profitable and satisfactory to all concerned, and we cheerfully pledge to said undertaking our full and hearty cooperation."

While the State Bankers' Association of North Carolina and Kentucky have heartily endorsed the cooperative marketing of tobacco, Virginia bankers have gone a step further in conferring with Aaron Sapiro, the great California organizer of cooperative markets. It was Sapiro who pointed out to Virginia and Carolina planters the road to prosperity through cooperative markets.

Following last week's session at Hot Springs, Va., and the explanation of the plan for cooperative tobacco markets in our State, as outlined by Sapiro, the Virginia Bankers' Association adopted the following resolution:

"Whereas, the bankers of Virginia watch with interest and gratification all measures for the development of the State's agricultural interest, realizing that the prosperity of the banker and all other business men depends in a large measure upon the prosperity of our farmers.

"Therefore, be it resolved that we recognize that the present methods of marketing and believe the cooperative plan the best yet worked out."

The growers of our State cannot afford to wait to sign the contract for cooperative markets now that big business offers aid to those who join this movement.

The threshing of wheat has bugun and the weather has been just fine for the work.

Green hides are quoted at 3 cents a pound and good shoes quoted as high as ten dollars a pair. Latest quotation on wool was 15 cents a pound and a suit of clothes selling at from $25 to $50. Hotel people should be making money now as they are charging the same old rates as they charged when food was so high. Ford touring car priced at $370 f. o. b. Detroit, I think $365 was as low as they ever got.

Mr. George W. Patteson and daughters were out at church here Sunday in a new car.

The teachers who have been having checks sent them by the county treasurer for each months pay will now have their warrants sent them for the balance that is due them. I hear that many counties in the state lack funds to finish paying school expenses. Merchants are using printers ink freely in the effort to sell their goods and each week they are a little lower and it is interesting to note the divergence in prices.

The young people here have done an act that helped to abate a nuisance and they will correct another evil if they get busy in the right way.

A dry June for a good corn year is an old-time saying, but all the same the corn is not coming if it is not thinned and worked as it should be.

Milk cows are going begging so to speak, and are being offered at nearly one-half what they would have sold for last year.

I hear of peaches being eaten in the south and I think often of the June apples I used to write about here.

Brinkley—Robertson

The marriage of Mr. Henry W. Brinkley, of Suffolk, Va, and Miss Hattie F. Robertson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Robertson, was quietly solemnized at the home of the bride's parents "Walnut Hill", near Spout Spring, Appomattox Co. Va., at noon Saturday, June 25, 1921.

Rev. J. W. Marsh, pastor of the Methodist church, was the officiating minister, and used the impressive ring ceremony.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father was attired in a traveling suit of dark blue poiret twill, with accessories in harmony, and wore a corsage of sweetheart roses and lillies of the valley.

Miss Lila Robertson, sister of the bride, was Maid of Honor. She wore a frock of white organdy and a white picture hat with a carsage of sweet peas.

Little Miss Harriet Deane, of Knoxville, Tenn., cousin of the bride was flower girl. She also was dressed in white organdy and carried a basket of pink roses.

The groom's best man was his brother, Dr. Arthur Brinkley, of Richmond, Va.

The wedding march was played by Miss Nellie Robertson sister of the bride, who also played "To a Wild Rose" very softly during the ceremony.

The house was simply but tastefully decorated. The improvised altar being formed of ferns, daisies and Queen Anne's lace and lighted with candles.

Only the immediate families and a few intimate friends of the bride and groom witnessed the ceremony, after which a buffet lunch was served, the table decorations being sweet peas.

Mr. and Mrs. Brinkley left immediately for a motor trip via Natural Bridge through the Valley of Virginia to Washington and other points They will make their home in Suffolk, Va,

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Catarrh being greatly influenced by constitutional conditions requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Medicine is taken internally and acts thru the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in the curative power of Hall's Catarrh Medicine that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

For Torpid Liver

"Black-Draught is, in my opinion, the best liver medicine on the market," states Mrs. R. H. Whiteside, of Keota, Okla. She continues: "I had a pain in my chest after eating—tight, uncomfortable feeling—and this was very disagreeable and brought on headache. I was constipated and knew it was indigestion and inactive liver. I began the use of Black-Draught, night and morning, and it sure is splendid and certainly gives relief."

Thedford's BLACK-DRAUGHT

For over seventy years this purely vegetable preparation has been found beneficial by thousands of persons suffering from effects of a torpid, or slow-acting liver. Indigestion, biliousness, colic, coated tongue, dizziness, constipation, bitter taste, sleeplessness, lack of energy, pain in back, puffiness under the eyes—any or all of these symptoms often indicate that there is something the matter with your liver. You can't be too careful about the medicine you take. Be sure that the name, "Thedford's Black-Draught," is on the package. At all druggists.

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. Edsel Ford, president of the Ford Motor Company gives the following statement:

"Another reduction has been made in the list price of all types of Ford cars and the Ford truck to take effect immediately. The list prices, f. o b Detroit, are now as follows:

Touring Car	$415	Runabout	$
Coupe	695	Sedan
Chassis	345	Truck Chassis
Tractor	625

"The big reductions last fall were made in anticipation of low material costs which we are now getting the benefit of and this fact together with increased manufacturing efficiency and the unprecedented demand for Ford cars, particularly during the past three months permitting maximum production, have made another price reduction possible immediately.

"Ford business for April and May 1921 was greater than 56,633 cars and trucks than for the same two months in 1920 in fact, the demand has been even greater than the supply so that our output has been limited, not by unfilled orders but by manufacturing facilities.

"During May we produced 101,424 Ford cars and trucks for sale in the United States alone—the biggest month in the history of our company—and our factories and assembling plants are now working on a 4000 car daily schedule for June.

"The Fordson tractor is still being sold at less than the cost to produce on account of the recent big price reductions, and it is impossible, therefore, to make any further cut in the price of the tractor."

Can you afford to go without a car any longer when Fords are selling at these new low prices? There is no reason now why you should delay purchasing a Ford car, Ford truck, or Fordson tractor.

We will gladly advise you concerning the delivery of a Fordson tractor or the particular type of car in which you are interested. Just phone us or drop us a card.
